THE HUMANE SOCIETY.

Close of Its Session Yesterday, After a Success ful Work.

The Welcome It Received Last Night at the Hands of the S. P. C. A. Society.

During yesterday's closing session of the American Humane association at All Souls' church the present officers, on motion of the committee on nominations, were re-elected. and Pittsburg selected as the place for holding the next annual meeting. The officers are: President, Edwin Lee Brown, Chicago; secretary, Abraham Firth, Massachusetts; tressurer, Levi Knowles, Philadelphia; extreasurer, Levi Knowles, Philadelphia; executive committee, George T. During the recess at noon the delegates called in a body on the President.

The society adjourned in the evening to meet with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals at the Foundry church. In the evening the association was given a meeting of welcome at the Foundry M. E. church, which was densely packed with people. Judge Arthur MacArthur, vice president of the Humane association and president of the Washington S. P. C. A., presided, and delivered the opening address. He welcomed the members of the Humane association to the national capital, and in reviewing the progress of the good work remarked that every step this civilized nation has taken has been marked by the use and abuse of domestic animals. It is the duty of the Humane association to teach man'his duty, and that is the duty of the Humane association to teach man'his duty, and that self interest and protection should go hand in hand in the noble work. The local society has existed about three years, and has accomplished remarkable results. Provious to that time dog and cock fighting were of almost daily occurrence. These practices have been and religious elements.

Mr. Edwin Lee Brown, of Chicago, president of the American Humane association, was the next speaker. He thought that most was the next speaker. He thought that most of the humane associations could learn something from the Washington society, and said that, while animals cannot speak, they can suffer, and they do suffer. The organization of the Illinois association was described, and a suggestion made that the Washington Humane and S. P. C. A. associations consolidate. The remainder of the programme included an address by Hon. Nathan Appleton, president of the Newport (R. I.) society, in which the work of the Newport and Massachusetts societies was detailed; an interesting review by Rev. E. Gordon, president of the Wisconsin Humane society, and an address by Rev.
Wm. A. Bartlett. Musical renditions were interspersed through the programme by Miss

Samuel S. Shedd.

Mr. Samuel S. Shedd, of No. 409 Ninth street northwest, furnishes a striking instance of what pluck and attention to business will accomplish. Although one of our youngest merchants he has already estab-lished a large patronage, and his house ranks among the first in the city. From his well assorted collection one can purchase the plainest or most elaborate gas fixtures, latrobes, ranges, mantels, lamps, and all such things in his line as are essential to a well arranged dwelling. Mr. Shedd is a native of Washington and players and latrobes and la Washington, and enjoys among all who know him the reputation of doing honest work at fair prices. He has lately devoted a great deal of attention to the newest and best patents in gas burners, globes, and portable lamps, which he displays in great profusion. Election of Officers.

The Funeral of Uriah G. Bowen. The funeral of the late Uriah G. Bowen took place from his residence on Twelfth street, near W, yesterday afternoon. Deceased was 54 years of age and an old and respected citizen. Many preity floral trib-nies were presented, including a pillar, with the words "At Rest" The pallboarers were Charles Love, John C. Collier, John Carr, James Graham, John Courtney, and Robert Talks. The funeral service was preached by the Rev. S. H. Greens, and the remains in-terred in Gienwood cemetery. Mr. Bowen was widely and favorably known, and his death removes an enterprising citizen and a man of singularly lovable qualities.

The Woman's Labor Exchange. The Woman's Labor Exchange, of which Mrs. M. A. Butler is president, has made its annual report for the year ending October 1, 1883. During the past year the Exchange found places for 673 women. There was sold $485 worth of work placed at the Exchange of women for sale. Sixteen young Armory hall change of women for sale. Sixteen young girls were given homes. The expenses of the Exchange were $1,042, and the receipts from donations and goods sold were $232,50. NOT TO BE DISBANDED.

What Mr. Duff Says of the Rumors About His Opera Company.

It has been freely talked in musical and other circles that Duff's Opera company would he dishanded at the end of this week, and the manager's original plans be altered. The fact that Miss Juch and Miss Barton and Campobello have not appeared in the cast this week was commented on as evidence of the week was commented on as evidence of the alleged fact of disbanding. To give the pub-lic the facts, and to do the manager justice, a NATIONAL REPUBLICAN representative called last night on Mr. Duff, and bluntly inquired NATIONAL REPUBLICAN representative called last night on Mr. Duff, and bluntly inquired if the rumor was true.

"Not a particle of truth is in it," said Mr. Duff, emphatically. "As to Misses Juch and Barton, and Signor Campobello being absent from the cast, I have only to say that they are drawing pay just the same as if they were singing. Miss Juch has been in Washington ten or twelve days. Mr. Harvey left the company six weeks ago. The salaries are all paid promptly, and I refer as to that matter to every member of the company. The fact is, I concluded some time ago to devote myself to comic opers, as it paid better, and seemed more acceptable to the majority of the people. My entire company are preparing themselves for adaptation to the change. I really had not intended to come to Washington, but at the last moment changed my mind. After this week I shall go to Philadelphia and keep the Arch Street theater for a couple of weeks. The fact is, I shall not try Italian opers any more, and in that resolve am encouraged by my troupe.

"Any such rumor as you mention," continued Mr. Duff, "must have started from the fact that Juch, Campobello, and Miss Barton have not sung here this week. I fyou look at my advertisement you will find that they are said to belong to the company, not that they would sing in 'Heart and Hand.' The sing-

The cast of the Heart and Hand 'is the original New York and A., we see the identical cast which made the operation of a redical change in the business we have done. You are assured," concluded Mr. Duff, "that there is no truth in the rumor you have mentioned."

At 5 o'clock the organ pealed forth the wedding march from Lohengrin, and the bridal party entered in the following order: The ushers, Dr. M. F. Thompson, and Messrs. T. B. Elker, J. F. Rule, J. L. Whittington, W. J. Acker, and C. A. Seitz. The bride was accompanied by her mother; and met the groom and his best man, Mr. S. B. Pennypacker, at the altar. Rev. Wm. Paret solemnized the rites of marriage. The bride was attired in a deep cream plush costume, princess style, with square train and ottoman silk trimmings, covered by a Spanish lace veil, which hung in graceful folds about her. She carried upon her arm a wedding bell of Marechal Niel roses. Her mother wore a black velvet suit, with diamond ornaments, and gave the bride away. The reception followed at the residence of Mrs. A. M. Rogers, 602 Twelfth street northwest, which was elaborately decorated for the occasion. Many handsome presents were received by the young couple. Refreshments were served, and dancing continued until a late hour.

THE SEQUEL TO A SCANDAL.

Mr. Eldridge Severely Beaten by Mr. Alexander. A sequel to the Eldridge-Alexander scandal case occurred in an up-town restaurant about 9:30 o'clock last night. Alexander and a friend were at the bar drinking when Eldridge walked in. The trio came together, dridge walked in. The trio came together, and, after a few minutes of angry discussion, Alexander dealt Eldridge a stunning blow in the face, cutting his mouth very badly and causing him to fall into a distant corner of the room. Alexander followed up the blow and dealt Eldridge, who appeared to be dazed, several more lively "taps." Bystanders and the barkeeper interfered at this juncture and separated the men. Eldridge then started for a drug store to have his wounds dressed. No arrests were made, his wounds dressed. No arrests were made, as the affair occurred on the inside entirely.

The Kindergarten Union. The regular monthly meeting of the Kindergarten Union was held Wednesday night at St. George's Hall. An extract was read from a Chicago paper describing the newly erected kindergarten building in Eau Claire, Wiscousin. The best methods of providing Christmas entertainments for the Bethany and Pensoara Free Kindergartens were discussed. Prof. Boyd illustrated his system of memorizing. Mrs. Mohl, secretary of the Freebel union, asked for contributions of money for the benefit of the Pensoara or condition that the children of the Bethany school attend three. made to introduce a bill in this district at an early day. He could not say what support such a measure would receive in the senate, but was sure that a fair hearing would be accorded to those citizens who favor it.

The postal telegraph bill recently introduced into the senate has awakened considerable interest in the officials of the Western Union Telegraph company. Dr. Novin Green, the president of the corporation, is at present in the city, and it is reported will pass the winter here. A prominent democratic member of the house said yesterday that he intended to at once renew his acquaintance with the doctor, as it had been whispered around in congressional circles that he would around in congressional circles that he would tax the resources of Wormley to produce a few dinners during the season that would rival the best efforts of Sam Ward.

rival the best efforts of Sam Ward.

While the democratic members of the house may not be a unit as to the advisability of placing Mr. Morrison at the head of the ways and means committee, it is quite certain that the majority who supported Mr. Carlisle in the caucus confidently count on his selection. In this connection the utterances of a western representative, who is an intimate friend of the speaker, may be regarded as significant. He said yesterday that he had discussed this matter with Mr. Carlisle upon several occasions, and while he would not be justified in saying anything as to the personnel of that committee generally. would not be justified in saying anything as to the personnel of that committee generally, it was absolutely certain that the chairman of the ways and means would be Mr. Morrison; that Frank Hurd, of Ohio, would be second on the committee, and Kasson, of Iowa, would be the first republican selected to serve on it. It was also very probable that this committee would be increased to fifteen members. Mr. Carlisle was closely studying the characteristics of the house, and in making up this committee special care would be the committee. studying the characteristics of the house, and in making up this committee special care would be taken to constitute it so that it would fully represent the speaker's position with regard to the tariff beyond any contingency. It was probable that Mr. Randall would be placed at the head of the appropriations committee, and he thought the speaker in making it up would have due record for example but in the speaker in making it up would have due regard for economy, but at the same time he would carefully guard against there being any such penurious or starving out policy as had characterized that committee in the past when Mr. Randall was at its head, and had drawn down edium upon the heads of the democratic majority by crippling the administration of important branches of the government. Equal care would be taken in making

THE SITUATION UNCHANGED.

Posey Not Vet Lynched, But the Populace Much Excited.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., Dec. 6.-The situation here remains unchanged. The exciting rumors current last night had some foundation. Scouts who were sent outside the city observed, at about midnight, as many as one hundred armed men in a clump of woods a mile from the city, discussing whether or not Representative McMillen, of Tennessee, the jail in which Wesley Poscy, charged with Representative McMillen, of Tennessee, will at an early day introduce a bill to grant pensions to the survivors of the Mexican war.

Sergeant-at-arms Leedom having filed his bond yesterday, the records of the office and all belonging to it were turned over to him by his predecessor, Col. Hooker. During the incumbency of the latter not an error has occurred in banking transactions, not a composite to the pressions of sympathy from Springville, wenty miles distant, telegrams were sent to that place saling the passes of the pall in which Wesley Posey, charged with assaulting John Boyle's daughter, is confined. From words caught by cavesdroppers it was learned that the crowd had been discapped in one receiving expected reinforcements from other quarters. They had endeavored to excite public feeling in other towns against the accused, and receiving expensions of sympathy from Springville, they are all the part of the part courred in banking transactions, not a com-laint has been received from any quarter, and not a check or draft has been lost, though Birmingham. Information, however, reached about three hundred have been sent from the office by mail every month during the recesses.

It was stated last night that Mr. Carlisle would probably announce the committee on elections next week, and the remainder of the committees just before the holiday adjournment.
